CodeGuide

- * Imagine a Website that have Millions of Q&A about almost all

 Computer languages & tools which can help you with your problem Whatever is it.
- * CodeGuide has both materials of studying certain language and all Q&A about it.
- * CodeGuide provides a fertile society where you can learn and communicate with a specialist about certain problem if you need to.

Posts & New Feeds

CodeGuide has general section for posts & new feeds which are Q&A about actual problems facing some users, virtual problems assumed by moderators of website Or Tasks made by Instructors.

You can search for problem facing you in search engine of website then you will find Q&A about the problem facing you as it probably asked by someone else.

If you can't find an answer for your question in search results, you can ask it by yourself and it will be answered very soon, you can also ask a specialist directly if you have a premium account.

Language List:

This site offers its users the facility of learning programming languages through a different categories of various languages like (python, java, c, c++,php,...., etc) . it offers a brief knowledge of the chosen language by user and also it shows all posts related to this language for user to know techniques and projects made by others. During programming, there might be problems faced by programmer so he can search for related posts in the language section in the site. Moreover for every language the site supports links for different online courses related to the language.

Interactive Groups:

following to the posts section that would be public, The user can create their own groups for a particular topics where others can join and has detailed debates between the users for any one who wants to get more knowledge.